Time and again, the phenomenon of femicide is being projected on non- (West) European societies as well as on refugees and persons with migration background by media reports and in public debate. This eventually leads to the invisibility of the crimes committed by white, ethnic German perpetrators. Imputation due to racism is thus a virulent part of the debate, while at the same time a depoliticisation of femicide is taking place: patriarchal power relations that constitute the context in which the murders are being perpetrated are barely addressed.

This approach to the topic raises urgent questions:

Aren't femicides in fact a global phenomenon? What roles do patriarchal structures play in relation to femicide? How do women in different countries fight against these structures?

On the occasion of the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women (25th November), Dachverband der Migrantinnenorganisationen (DaMigra e.V.) in cooperation with Bundesverband der Migrantinnen extends an invitation to the event "More than Jealousy and Honour – Femicide as a Global Phenomenon?". Three speakers will discuss and contribute their respective expertise on femicide in Turkey, Mexico and Germany. We will then invite all participants to an open discussion round.

Speakers:

Dr. Nil Mutluer (sociologist, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin) as speaker on femicide in Turkey

Paulina Trejo Méndez (social scientist and feminist artist) as speaker on femicide in Mexico

Marlene Pardeller (member of the initiative #keinemehr and filmmaker) as speaker on femicide in Germany

Moderation: Çiler Firtuna

After the event there will be an opportunity for informal discussion with drinks and snacks.

The event will take place in English. Translations into German, Turkish and Arabic are possible. Please indicate your requirements when registering. Please register by 17th November 2018.
